Finding the right career path can be a challenging. As a parent or caregiver, it's hard to know how to help.

Now, Tahatū Career Navigator is here to guide the way.

Tahatū is Aotearoa New Zealand's new career website. It has been designed to give your rangatahi an easier way to explore careers, advice, and information. All schools and kura kaupapa Māori across the motu will be using Tahatū to help students confidently find their way from school to the workplace.

Tahatū replaces the careers.govt.nz website and has been created by the Tertiary Education Commission (TEC) with help from teachers, schools and kura across the country.

Get started with the Interest quiz

Tīmata mā te kairoro Kaingākau

Getting started can be really challenging, so an important first step on Tahatū is the 'Interest quiz'. It's a quick and easy tool that helps your rangatahi discover their interests and explore future careers that align with them.

In less than 10 minutes, students can get a better understanding of what they're interested in and how to apply that to the world of work. Based on their top interests, rangatahi receive personalised career suggestions that you can explore with them, helping them feel more confident about their journey ahead.
